

Ahwatukee Foothills Area Drainage Master Study/Plan

The purpose of the Ahwatukee Foothills Area Drainage Master Study/Plan is to identify known and potential flooding hazards in the Ahwatukee area. The study, which is a joint effort between the Flood Control District of Maricopa County and the city of Phoenix, covers approximately 39 square miles, roughly bounded by South Mountain to the north and west, Interstate-10 to the east and Pecos Road to the south (see map on reverse page).

The study will be divided into two phases. In the first phase, study team members will identify flooding problems and develop hydrology for the area. The second phase may be conducted to recommend structural methods such as channels and basins, or non-structural methods such as development codes, to help reduce and manage flooding in areas identified with particular flooding concerns. Ultimately, the results will be used to help the District and Phoenix make more informed decisions on future land development, and help guide local developers and property owners in building more safely. This will reduce potential damage to property and loss of life from drainage issues and stormwater flooding.

Community involvement is an important component of the study process. Team members will work with community members and stakeholders to obtain input throughout the study. We encourage you to join in the conversation using the steps listed below.

Get Involved

If you live or work in the study area, we need your involvement to make this study a success. Participation is as easy as 1, 2, 3!

1. Join in the conversation and take our online survey at www.floodtalk.org.
2. Sign up to receive project updates via email at www.bit.ly/FCDupdates.
3. Upload photos or videos you've taken of flooding in Maricopa County at www.reportaflood.org.
